EMU Once Again Appears On The Times Higher Education List

Times Higher Education, one of the most reputable publishers of the worldwide university rankings, announced "BRICS and Emerging Economies University Rankings" on 30 November 2016. Eastern Mediterranean University has achieved remarkable success after having been ranked the 173rd university on the said list featuring 300 institutions in 50 developing countries.

In the said evaluations, whilst Peking University ranks first, Koç University ranks first among Turkish universities. It is also worth mentioning that EMU is the only university appearing under the heading "Northern Cyprus" and ranks within the best 10 regarding the universities of Turkey.

The Times Higher Education "BRICS and Emerging Economies University Rankings" only include universities in BRICS nations of Brazil, Russia, India, China and South Africa as well as universities in countries classified as emerging by the Financial Times. This year both Croatia and Northern Cyprus appeared on the rankings for the first time with the inclusion of Zagreb

University and Eastern Mediterranean University on the list. Two months ago, Eastern Mediterranean University also appeared among Turkish universities in World University Rankings 2016.

The rankings use the same 13 performance indicators (i.e., teaching, research, citations, international outlook, and industry income) employed in World University Rankings but are recalibrated to reflect the development priorities of universities in emerging economies including relations with industry and internalisation.

EMU and İskele Municipality Settle A Collaboration Protocol

A collaboration protocol was signed between Eastern Mediterranean University (EMU) and İskele Municipality on the 23rd of November 2016. The protocol was signed at EMU Rector's Office will lead to the establishment of an EMU campus in the İskele region where academic, cultural and social exchange will take place. The protocol was signed at 10:00 a.m. by EMU Rector Prof. Dr. Necdet Osam and Mayor of İskele Hasan Sadıkoğlu.

Rector Prof. Dr. Osam delivered a speech at the signature ceremony and noted that EMU has successfully been fulfilling its social responsibilities. Prof. Dr. Osam also went on to state that the collaboration protocol will turn İskele region to a vibrant one, regarding academic and social dimensions. Prof. Dr. Osam noted that certain programs are set to take place in İskele following the completion of a feasibility study by EMU Faculty of Tourism. Prof. Dr. Osam concluded his speech by relaying his hope that the protocol will be for the best for all parties involved.

In a speech of his own, İskele mayor Sadıkoğlu noted that they are very happy and excited to be signing the collaboration protocol with EMU. Sadıkoğlu noted that they have carried out many projects since starting their term with the slogan "Our Love is İskele", pointing out that they have noticed a deficiency as İskele is the only district without a university. Sadıkoğlu noted that İskele will become an even more valuable region after the settlement of the protocol with an important university like EMU.

EMU Vice Rectors Prof. Dr. Özgür Eren, Prof. Dr. Hüseyin Özkaramanlı and Prof. Dr. M. Yaşar Özden, Rector's Coordinator Assist. Prof. Dr. Arif Akkeleş, Tourism Faculty Chair Prof. Dr. Hasan Kılıç, Secondary School Areas Education Department Chair Assoc. Prof. Dr. Hamit Caner and İskele Municipality council members were also present at the protocol signing ceremony.

EMU Signs Collaboration Protocols with Tatlısu Municipality

Two collaboration protocols were signed by Eastern Mediterranean University (EMU) and Tatlısu Municipality. One of the agreements signed is a "Cittaslow Consultancy and Reporting Service" protocol and the other is a "Collaboration" protocol. Both protocols were signed on the 21st of December 2016 at EMU Rector's Office by EMU Rector Prof. Dr. Necdet Osam and Tatlısu Mayor Ahmet Hayri Orçan at 10:00. Prof. Dr. Osam noted that EMU is a university that values community, underlining the fact that it continues its social responsibility projects in the context of consultancy. Prof. Dr. Osam also added to his words that EMU is providing consultancy for 2 out of the 3 municipalities at the Turkish Republic of Northern Cyprus (TRNC) that are members of Cittaslow.

Prof. Dr. Osam provided a reminder that the university is currently providing consultancy for Geçitkale Municipality that is in the process of the Cittaslow membership application process concluding by expressing his belief that the protocol signed with the Tatlısu Municipality will yield successful outcomes.

Tatlısu Mayor Orçan stated that eco tourism and "Cittaslow" or "Slow Food" movement understanding is becoming more prevalent in the TRNC with each passing day. Noting that EMU is contributing to society by being aware of its social responsibility, Orçan said that he is very happy to be in collaboration with EMU. Calling EMU an educational locomotive, Orçan stated that working with the TRNC's best institution of higher education is a big honor for them. Orçan concluded by relaying his belief that the collaboration will end in success.

Present at the signature ceremony were EMU Vice Rectors Prof. Dr. Özgür Eren and Prof. Dr. M. Yaşar Özden, Dean of the Architecture Faculty Dr. Özgür Dinçyürek, Interior Architecture Department Chair Prof. Dr. Uğur Ulaş Dağlı, Architecture Faculty academic staff and Municipality personnel.

EXPERT PERSPECTIVE

EMU Health Sciences Faculty Dean Prof. Dr. Mehtap Malkoç

"EMU SAYMER and 3 December World Disability Day"

As a continuously growing and developing center targeting the enhancement of the physical health of the disabled and their integration into the society, EMU SAYMER has been in operation since March 2016. With health professionals specialised in their respective fields, the center provides support for the holistic treatment of disabled individuals through physiotherapy, dietetics and nursing services. Closely following the latest trends in the field, EMU SAYMER applies up-to-date treatment methods with the support of high-technology medical equipment.

Among the center's aims are minimising the existing handicaps of the disabled, increasing their physical skills, providing psychosocial support and maximising their autonomy in daily activities. Within this framework, children with congenital or acquired functional disabilities, babies at high risk (premature or low birth weight babies) and children who have been diagnosed with cerebral palsy, muscular torticollis, spina bifida, brachial plexus injury, muscle disorders, autism, and down syndrome are evaluated from a physiotherapeutic perspective and treated by expert physiotherapists who possess in-depth experience in their fields.

Additionally, the center conducts the evaluation of adults diagnosed with neuromuscular disorders (Duchenne muscular dystrophy, Limb-girdle muscular dystrophy, myotonic dystrophy, amyotrophic lateral dystrophy etc...), stroke, multiple sclerosis, Parkinson disease, intracranial tumors, head concussions, polyneuropathies, spinal cord injuries, peripheral nerve injuries and offers appropriate physiotherapy programs, accordingly.

Having adopted a multidisciplinary approach in its practices, EMU SAYMER caters for an important need in our country. On 3 December World Disability Day, the importance of physiotherapy in the improvement of the physical health is once again highlighted. Additionally, in order for the disabled individuals to continue with their studies and gain professional skills, disabled-friendly modifications should be implemented in buildings. Similar measures regarding environmental design should also be taken for the disabled individuals' security and access to different places.

3 December World Disability Day should be considered as an opportunity both in our country and throughout the world for integrating the disabled into the society and providing equal and full rights to them like other individuals. For the prevention of disabilities, preventive measures should be highlighted and physical, mental and intellectual development of the disabled individuals should be developed through appropriate means. Additionally, 3 December World Disability Day should also serve as an opportunity for stressing the importance of the need to improve the educational, employment and social integration rights as well as the legal rights of the disabled."

An important indicator of a developed and modern society is the level of importance paid to the disabled individuals and their families as well as the means provided for their autonomous functioning within the community. Hence, state policies towards fulfilling this purpose should be developed and relevant measures should be taken. Development of health services and paying special attention to communal education should also be priority items in the government's agenda. Changing the society's point of view, minimising the transportation/access related problems preventing the disabled's integration into the society and applying relevant architectural changes will definitely contribute to the productivity level of the disabled individuals. These issues are the joint responsibility of both the governmental and non-governmental organisations in our country.

"Neuter, Vaccinate and Let Live Project" Continues

A protocol to renew the "Neuter, Vaccinate and Let Live Project" that has been ongoing as a result of collaboration between the Turkish Republic of Northern Cyprus (TRNC) Ministry of Agriculture and Natural Resources and the Eastern Mediterranean University (EMU) has been signed by TRNC Minister of Agriculture and Natural Resources Nazım Çavuşoğlu and EMU Rector Prof. Dr. Necdet Osam. The project that aims to increase the quality of life of stray animals was renewed from the 19th of December 2016.

Minister Çavuşoğlu: Being animal friendly is one of the criteria for a country to reach world standards

In his speech during the signature ceremony Minister Çavuşoğlu noted that sensitivity towards the environment and animal life is a measurement of how developed a country is, stating that cats and dogs are an irreplaceable part of nature. Noting that it is possible to feed animals if you have money, Çavuşoğlu highlighted the fact that providing love for them is what is important. Noting that the nurturing and vaccination of cats and dogs on campus will continue as part of the renewed protocol Minister Çavuşoğlu stated that protecting nature and maintaining the existence of animals are amongst the responsibilities of the ministry. Minister Çavuşoğlu noted: "Being animal friendly is one of the criteria for the TRNC to reach world standards. I thank you as a university, for your performance in helping us fulfill this criteria. By valuing animals and acknowledging their right to live, you have shown that the world isn't only ours but theirs also." During his speech at the signature ceremony, TRNC Minister of Agriculture and Natural Resources Nazım Çavuşoğlu stated that EMU is a university that brings to life Famagusta and the country as a whole. Minister Çavuşoğlu also said that he admired the university for carrying out the social responsibility project with stray animals at heart. Minister Çavuşoğlu thanked the university Rector, academicians, personnel and students, expressing his gratitude for the university which he described as "a leader in the university sector."

Prof. Dr. Osam: EMU is ready to do all it can in terms of social responsibility

In a speech of his own, EMU Rector Prof. Dr. Osam highlighted the importance of the day as the university working to provide a new life opportunity for our animal friends living on campus. Noting that EMU is a university that values animals, Prof. Dr. Osam stated: "The number of animal friends on campus is pretty high and they need support to live a normal life. For this reason we have been carrying a project for years with the TRNC Ministry of Agriculture and Natural Resources, to improve their living conditions." Prof. Dr. Osam stated that the renewal of the protocol is of great importance thanking Minister Çavuşoğlu for providing this opportunity. Prof. Dr. Osam noted that EMU is ready to do all it can in terms of social responsibility underlining the fact that they will always try to collaborate with official government agencies. Prof. Dr. Osam conveyed the importance of obtaining pets from shelters or the university instead of purchasing them from pet shops noting that the university is against the sale of our animal friends. Prof. Dr. Osam requested that students and people who want to get a pet apply to the university or to a shelter.

EMU Cyprus Policy Center Head Prof. Dr. Ahmet Sözen Gives Presentation at Italian Senate

Eastern Mediterranean University (EMU) Faculty of Business and Economics, Department of Political Science and International Relations academician and Head of EMU Cyprus Policy Center, Prof. Dr. Ahmet Sözen gave a presentation in the Italian Senate, titled "Regional Reconciliation in the Eastern Mediterranean and Development of Energy Resources".

The conference took place at the Senate of the Republic in Rome, as a result of collaboration between the Italian Center for Peace in the Middle East (CIPMO), the International Affairs Institute (IAI) and the National Hydrocarbon Company, Ente Nazionale Idrocarburi (ENI).

During the conference, the technical aspects of discovering and extracting energy from important sources were discussed. In addition, the conference focused on the relationship between regional stakeholders as well as possible geostrategic results and transformations.

The opening speech of the conference was given by ENI Executive Director Claudio Descalzi. After the themed speech from Miguel Arias Canete, Energy and Climate Change Delegate of the European Commission, a speech was given by Paolo Gentiloni, Minister of Foreign Affairs. A speech was also given by Head of the Italian Senate Foreign Affairs Committee.

Prof. Dr. Sözen started his speech by stating that whether natural resources are used as sources of conflict or cooperation, will impact whether or not an agreement will be reached. Prof. Dr. Sözen noted that stakeholders must unite their wisdom and power within legal framework. Acknowledging that this will not be easy, Prof. Dr. Sözen highlighted the fact that numerous inspirational examples that can be used as reference do exist.

Prof. Dr. Sözen stated that there is potential for cooperation in the Eastern Mediterranean region regarding hydrocarbon, before going on to note that maximum utilization is almost impossible because of the number, density and length disputes in the region. Prof.

Dr. Sözen emphasized at the Italian Senate that "The international community must strongly encourage the prevention of the 2017 hydrocarbon drillings until the negotiations are finalized as well as encouraging both leaders to swiftly find a solution to the Cyprus problem".

Providing detailed information about approaches regarding what needs to be done, Sözen stated that the most beneficial methods must be chosen in order to meet ideals such as regional agreements. Specific to Cyprus, Sözen stated that potential risks should be eliminated and therefore hydrocarbon drillings delayed until after the finalization of negotiations.

Eastern Mediterranean University (EMU) Faculty of Communication and Media Studies hosted a talk titled "Reporting from the Eastern Mediterranean" and Department of Journalism honor and high-honor certificate ceremony with the participation of Polish Press Agency news reporter Agnieszka Rakoczy.

The opening speech of the certificate ceremony was delivered by Department of Journalism Chair Assoc. Prof. Dr. Nurten Kara. Kara noted that they are adopting a new curriculum titled "New Media and Journalism" by making changes to the existing curriculum with the aim of elevating the international compliance of department students.

"Citizen Journalism Makes Everyone a Reporter"

The successful students of the Department of Journalism were presented their certificates by academic staff during the honor and high honor certificate ceremony that took place after the opening speech of Assoc. Prof. Dr. Nurten Kara. Following the certificate ceremony, a talk by experienced reporter Agnieszka Rakoczy took place. Not only students but also research assistants and academic staff members attended the talk. Prominent news reporter Agnieszka Rakoczy shared her experiences in the journalism sector with attendees of the event. Rakoczy started her speech by emphasizing the significance of providing exact information to the public, and continued her words as follows: "The increasing power of social media is offering us access to many sources and news items. With the help of citizen journalism, everyone is able to become a reporter instantly. Keeping this in consideration, reporters should be very careful in order to make the right choices in such a chaotic atmosphere."

"Be Careful about Misleading News"

Rakoczy underlined the difficulty of distinguishing between fake news and speculations in the interactive era

we are living in and emphasized the necessity of providing the public with actual information by exemplifying the existing lack of data about the ongoing massacre in Aleppo.

"I don't disclose that I am a journalist"

When pursuing foreign news in such geographies Rakoczy stated that she doesn't disclose that she is a journalist. "Firstly, I am not very good at preparing the concerned formalities. Secondly, if people know you are a journalist this can sometimes pose a security threat. In addition, if you don't disclose that you are a journalist you can obtain information from other news agencies and civilians more easily."

Pressure on the media is increasing

Rakoczy stated that polyphony is decreasing as pressure on the media increases. Rakoczy went onto note that when looking at her own country, she sees a partial decline in freedom of the press. Rakoczy continued as follows: "For example a protest with a participation of 200 thousand people, can be portrayed in the media as a protest with a participation of 50 thousand people."

The Cypriot community has the strength to shape their own destiny

Also stating her opinions about the Cypriot negotiation process, Rakoczy noted that she is carrying out journalism for Cyprus Today in the North and The Cyprus Mail and Sunday Mail in the South. Rakoczy noted that she still has hope for peace, stating that the problem is the perception that only the guarantors and super powers can solve the Cyprus problem. Rakoczy stated "The Cypriot community has the strength to shape their own destiny". After answering the audience's questions Agnieszka Rakoczy was handed her gifts and a plaque of appreciation. The talk ended with Department of Journalism students taking a photo with the experienced journalist.

EMU Talks Football

Organized by the Health Sciences Faculty, Department of Sports Sciences, a panel titled "Is Football Only Football?" took place at Eastern Mediterranean University (EMU). The moderator of the panel that took place at the Health Sciences Faculty amphitheatre was Prof. Dr. Mehtap Malkoç, Dean of the Health Sciences Faculty. Speakers at the panel were well-known Turkish football coach and sports writer Önder Özen and Cypriot sports writer Ogün Genç Kaçmaz.

Speaking in front of a large audience, Ogün Genç Kaçmaz provided information about the state of Cypriot football, living conditions and the difficulties of administrative affairs underlining the fact that necessary importance isn't placed on football in the country. The other speaker, Önder Özen talked about the social and economic effects of countries and their rulers on football, focusing on the financial and administrative dilemmas in Turkish football. The panel came to an end with a question and answer session.

Visit to EMU Rector's Office

Önder Özen and Ogün Genç Kaçmaz visited EMU Rector's Office along with Dean Prof. Dr. Mehtap Malkoç, Sports Sciences Department Coordinator Assist. Prof. Dr. Berkiye Kırmızıgil, academic staff member Ahmet Özyaşar and Public Relations and Press Office Director Murat Aktuğralı. At the Rector's Office the group visited Vice Rector for Academic Affairs Prof. Dr. Hüseyin Özkaramanlı. Receiving information about EMU, guest speaker Özen, expressed his pleasure regarding being at EMU. Özen was also presented a gift with Cypriot Lefkara work and EMU logo.

EMU Volleyball Gains Strength with Mercy Promise

The Eastern Mediterranean University (EMU) has added an important Nigerian sportsperson to their volleyball squad and had a good start to the league. Mercy Promise, who is captain of the Nigerian Youth team, has started competing for EMU and hasn't taken long to make an impression. Aged 22 with a height of 1.85 cm, Promise is viewed as one of the best hitters to have played in Cyprus.

Midweek, EMU came up against Near East University, last year's champions. After losing the first set 25-24, EMU won the next three sets 25-18, 25-15 and 25-15 to emerge 3-1 victors of the match. Mercy promise featured alongside her teammates Sedef, Çisem, Şerife, Beste, Asena, Ayşe, Merve and Rale, with her smashes playing an important part in victory.

Commenting on the transfer of Promise, EMU Sports Affairs Director Cemal Konnolu noted that EMU is major contenders for the championship, going on to state that Mercy will help the development of volleyball in the country: "Excitement will rise as a result of new and quality sports people coming to the island. We have strengthened the EMU Female Volleyball Team squad with the addition of Mercy, who has a unique smash technique". Konnolu concluded by stating that they will continue to serve Indoor Sports and raise the quality of the leagues by completing further important transfers.

TRNC Universities Met at EMU Sports Festival

Eastern Mediterranean University (EMU) hosted a Sports Festival under the aegis of Turkey's Turkish Republic of Northern Cyprus (TRNC) Ambassador Derya Kanbay, featuring the participation of TRNC universities. The Sports Festival that aimed to strengthen university communication and collaboration via sporting activities took place on Sunday the 27th of November 2016, starting at the EMU Lala Mustafa Paşa Sports Complex at 09:30 and continuing throughout the day.

Athletes from Cyprus International University, University of Mediterranean Karpasia, Cyprus Health and Social Sciences University, Cyprus Science University, American University of Cyprus and Final International University competed at the Sports Festival in tennis, futsal and athletics categories.

In his opening speech, EMU Vice Rector for Student Affairs Prof. Dr. M. Yaşar Özden noted that the aim of the Sports Festival is to strengthen TRNC university communication, collaboration and relations via sporting activities. Prof. Dr. Özden also thanked the attending universities for their participation and wished them an enjoyable sportsmanlike competition.

During the day-long event both singles and doubles tennis matches were played. The futsal competition comprised of two groups in the male category and one group in the female category. The athletics included long-jump, javelin throw, 800 meters, 100 metres and 4x100 relay competitions. At the end of the competition the attending universities were presented with plaques and certificates of appreciation as well as the event t-shirt by EMU Vice Rector for Student Affairs Prof. Dr. Özden, Rector's Coordinator Assoc. Prof. Dr. Derviş Subaşı and Sport Affairs Director Cemal Konnolu.
