MSc Thesis Study (committee approval: 17 October 2017)

The two-stage thesis study highlighted several findings and further directions:

- Subjective Probability Task was translated into Turkish as Geleceğe Yönelik Öngörüler Ölçeği.
- Statistical validity and reliability analyses were made, and all necessary criteria were found to be satisfied in its application to adult student samples.
- Future expectations were demonstrably involved in the mediation of the relationship between executive function deficits and worsening depression symptom profiles.
- Findings add to current conceptualizations of the condition, and inform future interventions.
